ABOUT IPN 2026

The International Conference on Pediatrics, Neonatology, and Child Health (March 26-28, 2026, in Singapore and Online) is more than just a gathering of experts—it's a forward-thinking forum where groundbreaking research meets real-world clinical practice. This event will dive deep into the latest advancements in pediatric medicine, neonatology, and child health, sparking discussions that challenge conventional approaches and inspire innovative solutions. From exploring cutting-edge neonatal care techniques to addressing the complexities of pediatric chronic diseases, the conference will spotlight transformative healthcare strategies tailored for the youngest and most vulnerable patients.

This is not just another conference—it's a movement toward shaping the future of pediatric and neonatal healthcare. Attendees will leave with not only knowledge but also the inspiration to redefine pediatric practice, advance research, and improve outcomes for children worldwide. Whether you're a clinician, researcher, academician, policymaker, or industry expert, this conference is where your ideas, collaborations, and innovations will make an impact.
